THE THEATERS

One of the most gratifying announcements that the present dramatic season has offered, is that of the coming of Mrs. Fiske, with her sparkling comedy, "Mrs. Bumpstead Leigh." The announcement has been eagerly greeted, for in Clarksburg as well as every other city the American stage is unarguably granted. Her position has been gained by a record of accomplishment which stands alone in the affairs of the American stage and by intellectual qualities that make her, outside of her profession, one of the representative women of the country. Her new play will present her in a light quite unlike that of her former plays, since its mission is solely one of amusement. It is a happy, care-free production, and one in which the contrast between the Mrs. Bumpstead Leigh Mrs. Fiske and the Mrs. Fiske, for instance, will be found positively startling, but doubly enjoyable, since it is the epitome of the unexpected.

The local representation of this laughter play will be given at the Robinson Grand theater the night of June 4.

"The Two Sergeants," presented by the World's Special Film Company in six parts, is the attraction at the Orpheum today. This play was dramatized from a famous French military story, and the characterization is flawless. An all star cast is featured.

Tomorrow a two-part American drama is to be shown, entitled "In the Moonlight," featuring Ed. Coxen, Winnifred Greenwood, George Field, and a large cast of screen favorites. Our Mutual Girl, featuring Norma Phillips, will also be shown. This week our Mutual Girl is sketched by Briggs, the famous cartoonist of the New York Tribune. Many late styles in dress are shown.

The program at the Bijou today is extra fine. Daniel Frohman presents Cecelia Loftus in a four-part famous, "A Lady of Quality." Frances X. Bushman is the principal in a splendid two-part Essanay, "A Man for a That." A fine Lubin drama, "Little Breeches," and a special Pathe Weekly, that is unusual interesting, complete the program. A word to the wise, "The Bushman" will be shown in the afternoon only, so come to the matinee. The night performance includes "A Lady of Quality" and Pathe Weekly.

Tomorrow afternoon and evening will be shown the tenth number of the series of that great criminal picture entitled "The Adventures of Kathlyn." It tells how Kathlyn sweeps into the shining armor of the warrior maid. All the vagrant forces at her command take renewed courage, assume the regality of military formation, invade the spacious palace grounds and then dash on into the edifice of royalty. They rush through the arched gates, killing the sentries and driving back the defenders. Bullets shatter the delicate traceries of the carvings of the walls, and the defenders wither before the fury and accuracy of the fire of Kathlyn's forces as they rush through the palace.

An extra special Pathe Weekly is on at the Odeon theater today showing the landing of the boat and also the funeral services of the seven dead sailors who lost their lives at Vera Cruz. This picture is just released and is showing in the Odeon for the first time in this city. A splendid two-part Selig feature entitled "The Salvation of Nance O'Shaughnessy," depicting the perils investing the lives of the lowly in great cities is also shown.

Special music for the 3,000 feet of film of "Spartacus," George Klein's latest photodrama, has been composed by Modeste Altschuler, of the Russian Symphony orchestra, of New York. "Spartacus," which photo-dramatically relates of romantic, historical and tragic events attendant upon the revolt of the gladiators against Roman rule about 73-71 B. C., will probably be the attraction to follow "Antony and Cleopatra," another Klein marvel in animated photography, now being presented at the Candler theater, Forty-second street, west of Broadway.

Guy Standing has joined the company playing "Daddy Longlegs," in which Ruth Chatterton is starring.

Emmett Corrigan and Alexandra Carlisle will be the principals in Charles Klein's new play, "The Money Makers." It will be produced in New York next October.
